25 JAN (Monday): THE CONVERSION OF SAINT PAUL

The Conversion of St. Paul, Bartolome Murillo

26 JAN (Tuesday): SAINTS TIMOTHY and TITUS, Bishops

Timothy joined St. Paul on his missionary journeys and became his close friend and confidant, receiving at least two Pauline letters that would become part of the canon. Titus, a Gentile, was converted by St. Paul and became his disciple and fellow missionary.

28 JAN (Thursday): SAINT THOMAS AQUINAS, Doctor of the Church (1225-1274)

Educated by Benedictine monks at Monte Cassino, and at the University of Naples, his works (e.g., Summa Theologica) are seminal to the thinking of the Church. Pope Leo XIII commanded that his teachings be studied by all theology students. He was proclaimed a Doctor of the Church in 1880.

30 JAN (Saturday): SAINT HYACINTH MARESCOTTI, Virgin (1585-1640)

Hyacinth(a) was a Franciscan tertiary at St. Bernardine's convent in Viterbo, Italy. She initially used her personal funds to insure comfortable lodgings for herself, but after chastisement by her confessor she became humble in food and dress and performed the most menial work at the convent. She developed a special devotion to the sufferings of Jesus. She was the foundress of the Oblates of Mary, dedicated to working with the aged poor.

MESSAGE OF HIS HOLINESS POPE FRANCIS FOR THE CELEBRATION OF THE XLIX WORLD DAY OF PEACE 1 JANUARY 2016

Indifference to our neighbour shows itself in different ways. Some people are well-informed; they listen to the radio, read the newspapers or watch television, but they do so mechanically and without engagement. They are vaguely aware of the tragedies afflicting humanity, but they have no sense of involvement or compassion. Theirs is the attitude of those who know, but keep their gaze, their thoughts and their actions focused on themselves. Sadly, it must be said that today's information explosion does not of itself lead to an increased concern for other people's problems, which demands openness and a sense of solidarity. Indeed, the information glut can numb people's sensibilities and to some degree downplay the gravity of the problems. There are those who "simply content themselves with blaming the poor and the poor countries themselves for their troubles; indulging in unwarranted generalizations, they claim that the solution is an 'education' that would tranquilize them, making them tame and harmless. All this becomes even more exasperating for the marginalized in the light of the widespread and deeply rooted corruption found in many countries – in their governments, businesses and institutions – whatever the political ideology of their leaders."

In other cases, indifference shows itself in lack of concern for what is happening around us, especially if it does not touch us directly. Some people prefer not to ask questions or seek answers; they lead lives of comfort, deaf to the cry of those who suffer. Almost imperceptibly, we grow incapable of feeling compassion for others and for their problems; we have no interest in caring for them, as if their troubles were their own responsibility, and none of our business. "When we are healthy and comfortable, we forget about others (something God the Father never does): we are unconcerned with their problems, their sufferings and the injustices they endure... Our heart grows cold. As long as I am relatively healthy and comfortable, I don't think about those less well off."

Because we dwell in a common home, we cannot help but ask ourselves about the state of its health, as I sought to do in Laudato Si'. Water and air pollution, the indiscriminate exploitation of forests and the destruction of the natural environment are often the result of man's indifference to man, since everything is interrelated. Then too, there is the way we treat animals, which has an effect on the way we treat other people, and the cases where people freely do elsewhere what they would never dare do at home.
